

HOME PROFILE

THE OWNER Footwear designer Cleo Barbour, who runs the label Cleo B. She shares the space with her wire-haired dachshund Honey B.

THE PROPERTY A two-storey warehouse conversion in west London. There is an open-plan living/dining area/kitchen with a terrace and WC/shower room on the lower floor. Upstairs is the master bedroom with dressing area, the bathroom and a guest bedroom.

← LIVING AREA

Bare brickwork and warehouse proportions get the Cleo B treatment, with powder pinks, plush suede and nightclubby lighting. 'Some people don't get the mix - they expect loft living to be stark, hard and uncomfortably gritty. I disagree!' says Cleo.

Get the look The curtains are vintage Designers Guild available at F & F. Beyond Designs can customise similar chair. This is Saraille wallpaper in Aqua from Designers Guild available at F&F. Check out Mikasa or Pergo for flooring.

LIVING AREA

Cleo found the old local campaign poster of her father - an entrepreneur who stood for election in the Sixties - in the attic, covered in dust. 'He was a very kind and inspirational person,' she says.

Get the look The magazine storage is from SCP. Cleo worked with the builders on the design of the low shelf.

